The Ohio Election.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17.—The election returns as yet are of a very unsatisfactory character, and it is impossible to state definitely who is elected Governor. The Democratic State Committee, from their returns received from eighty-two counties (official), and guesses as to other counties, now claim that Allen is elected by 869 majority. The Republicans do not give up the ship as yet, and claim that nothing but full official returns can definitely decide the question as to who is elected.

The troops assigned by the Government of Colombia to protect the transit across the Isthmus have joined the rebels. COMBAT IN MID-AIR

DEADLY STRUGGLE ON A TIGHT-ROPE—ONE COMBATANT HURLED TO THE GROUND AND INSTANTLY KILLED

Little did the tens of thousands of men, women and children who thronged the public square of Agram, Croatia, on the 15th of August anticipate that they were about to witness a spectacle such as has perhaps never been seen before—a mortal struggle in mid-air. The occasion of the gathering was a performance on the tight-rope. The acrobats, Andreas Kolter and Francis Pergowitch, were to appear on the rope, which had been stretched from the fifth story of the court-house to a window in an opposite house, a distance of 240 feet. The acrobats were to meet mid-way, and then to pass each other. When the clock struck 12 the acrobats emerged from their respective windows, dressed in tights, and without balance poles. Kolter walked rather cautiously, while Pergowitch came to meet him from the opposite direction with a nervous, quick step. At last they met, and the suspense of the crowd underwent a change the next moment to a feeling of indescribable horror. Pergowitch suddenly uttered an angry exclamation, and dealt Kolter a terrible blow on the head. Kolter staggered and fell, but in so doing succeeded in clutching the rope with one hand, while with the other he grasped the leg of his assailant. Pergowitch now fell likewise, but passed his right arm around the rope, so that he hung upon it in comparative security. And now began a life and-death struggle. Kolter, with his right hand, tried to drag Pergowitch from the rope, while Pergowitch kicked Kolter with his right foot, and with his left hand endeavored to loosen his antagonist's hold. No was one able to interfere, and the result, it was easy to forsee, must be the death of one or both the acrobats. Many women fainted while strong men wept like children. What added to the general despair was the appearance of Kolter's young wife at the open window, from which her husband a few moments before had set out upon his fatal walk. Her piteous screams were heard above the din below, and her appeals to Pergowitch to spare her husband's life would have moved the heart of an Apache. The struggle in mid-air lasted perhaps a minute, when Kolter suddenly uttered a last cry and lost his hold. He fell to the ground striking it violently and expiring instantly. While the people gathered around the corpse of poor Kolter, his murderer on the tight rope managed to get on his feet again. With a diabolical expression on his face he uttered a yell of triumph.

The Prefect of Police ordered Pergowitch to surrender. In case he should not do so within five minutes he would be shot down like a dog. Finally he raised himself to his feet and ran quickly to the Court house window, where he surrendered begging that he might be protected from violence. There was great danger of his being executed by the people, who loudly clamored that the murderer be given up to them, but the military by a bayonet charge cleared the public square. Pergowitch being asked what caused him to perpetrate this crime, said that there had been a grudge between him and Kolter ever since the latter had married young Rosita Serganoff, a Polish girl of rare beauty. Kolter, in a fit of jealousy, had told him he knew one or the other must die on this account. Andreas Kolter was the youngest member of the distinguished family of acrobats of that name.

The Washington Chronicle says: "It is evident that the question of admitting the colored people to membership in the Granges or Patrons of Husbandry will be annoying. The Constitution is silent on the subject, and the refusal of some Southern Granges to admit any colored members is taken as an indication that there is something more in the intention of the Order than to merely "ignore the question."

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—A native of Japan was arrested here to-day for burglary, the first individual of that race ever arrested in this city. A large quantity of property stolen was found in his possession. His ally in crime, a negro, was also arrested.

The Yuma and Maricopa delegation this morning took covered carriages and made a tour to several banks and many places of business. They go to the Gardens this afternoon to see the balloon go up with Mons. Duret and his aids.

Hundreds of people went by the early boats to Oakland to be in good time for the grand running races this afternoon. Thad. Stevens continues the favorite over Joe Daniels in the pools, and amongst betters by about two to one.

At 11 A. M. to-day M. Turner, counsel for the sailors of the ship Sunrise against her master, Clarke, made a personal application to U. S. Marshal Morris to bring them into the Justice's Court for the purpose of testifying in civil cases. Mr. Morris declined to recognize his application, for the reason that it was not properly made, and because a great crowd had collected at the County Jail, evidently for the purpose of resisting his authority if the sailors should be brought out in irons. He says he is responsible to the courts for their safe keeping, and will keep them by all legitimate means, as he would other prisoners in his charge. Turner will now probably apply for a writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum, when, in obedience to it, the Marshal will employ such means as may insure their safe custody, and avoid any riotous demonstrations. About 200 men are still waiting in the vicinity of the jail.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—The two reporters who went up in the balloon to-day from the City Gardens, dropped from the same in the Bay, near Marin county, and were rescued by the steamtug Rescue. The balloon is still traveling without a guide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Duret's balloon went up this afternoon, but Duret did not go with it. Austin of the Chronicle and Clough of the Call, were the ones who undertook to find the celebrated eastern air current. Austin controlled the balloon. They found an air current, but it took them rapidly to the northwest. Austin saw the tug Neptune in the bay, pulled the valve rope and the balloon descended low enough to allow him to leap into the bay, whence boats and the crew rescued him, but poor Clough went up again like a rocket. Austin, a twenty dollar gold piece and himself had been the only ballast; they were gone and the valve rope broken. Clough climbed into the netting, got hold of the broken rope, opened the valve, and down she came close to the water, and the crew of the Neptune got him safely out. The balloon then reascended, and when last seen was going towards the North Pole over San Rafael. The enterprising aeronauts are now at North Beach taking another bath, Clough minus the suit of clothes which he wore at starting.

The Coroner's jury in the case of Gillem, found that he came to his death by wounds inflicted by Lloyd Bell, and charge the latter with the crime of murder.

Interior California.

SAN RAFAEL, Oct. 18.—The balloon sent up from the City Gardens to-day was seen here just at dusk. It was evidently over the [illegible], and going rapidly in a northwesterly direction.

SAN RAFAEL, Oct. 18.—The balloon passed out of sight of this place at 7:15 P. M. It had a bright light swinging at that time. Its course seemed to be to the northwest, traveling slower than when first seen.

OAKLAND, Oct. 18.—In the great four mile and repeat race to-day at Oakland Park, six horses started—Thad Stevens, Joe Daniels, Ballot Box, Target, Kate Gift and Irene Harding. The first heat was won by Joe Daniels; time, 7:42½. The second and third heats were won by Thad Stevens; time, 7:30, 7:42½. Target, Irene Harding and Kate Gift were distanced in the second heat.

VISALIA, Oct. 19.—Last night the stage between here and the railroad depot was stopped by three masked highwaymen, one with a shotgun, who headed the team while the others, with revolvers, attended the coach on each side. Five passengers were aboard, and being unarmed, were easily persuaded to disburse their valuables. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s box, containing but $515, was robbed of its contents. Probably $150 was obtained from the passengers. The Sheriff and deputies are in pursuit, with good prospect for success, as the robbers are said to be well known, one having dropped his mask and exposed his face. Mail and express letters were not disturbed.

GRASS VALLEY, Oct. 19.—Yesterday morning John Luke, a miner in Idaho mine, was killed. He was going down the shaft in a cage to the 600-foot level. When the cage reached the 400-foot level, he evidently supposed it had arrived at the sixth, and attempted to step off when the cage was in motion. The top bar of the descending cage struck him on the back of the neck, killing him instantly. As the body was brought up it fell a short distance and lodged in some timbers. Deceased leaves a wife and four children.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 18.—The body of Charles Morean, who was found dead with a bullet hole through his head, on the 8th inst., and whom a coroner's jury decided to have committed suicide, is to be disinterred. Subsequent facts have come to light through the energetic exertions of the police, having the belief that he was foully murdered for money and jewelry which he carried at the time.

Josephine Davis, aged 12 years, disappeared yesterday and has not been found.

In the Bennett murder case, a number of winesses were examined for the defense to-day. The case will not probably go to the jury before Tuesday.

UTAH.

From Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 18.—The First National Bank has attached Saturn and Sheridan Hill Mining Company's furnaces and Camp Floyd mill. Work will be carried on as usual under charge of the old officers. An immense quantity of bullion is locked up in consequence of the lack of currency. Silver is now selling at less than twenty cents per ounce. A general depressment exists in mining circles. Trains are running on Bingham's Canyon narrow gauge.

NEVADA.

CARSON, Oct. 19.—Col. Abe Curry died this morning at 4 o'clock. He will be buried to-morrow at 10 o'clock by the Red Men.

A LUSUS NATURÆ.—A two-headed snake was caught yesterday and brought into town by Ben Anderson. It is a water snake, about a foot or more in length, and is the happy possessor of two separate and distinct heads, with a mouth and eyes in each, and seems to be able to use either mouth at will, throws a tongue out of first one and then the other, or both at the same time. The heads separate from the center of the body or neck, are about two inches in length, and his snakeship can at pleasure use either of the heads while the other remains quiet. Major Harris purchased the snake for $5, and was in a few moments after offered $20, which he declined.—San Bernardino Guardian, Oct. 4th.

"The Gilded Age" is the title of the forthcoming novel by Mark Twain and Mr. Warner of Hartford Conn. It will be published in three volumes, and will probably be ready at the end of October or early in November. Arrangements have been made with a publishing house by which the author's rights will be protected in England as well as in America.

A youth of Salisbury, four years old, and his younger sister saw a rat hasten into a hole in the barn floor. Said he, "Sis, the Bible says, 'Watch and pray.' You pray while I watch the hole, and I'll swat him across the snoot when he comes out."

MONDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 20, 1873.

SHADOWS, ETC.

It is quite apparent that the Bulletin does not properly heed the admonition of last Monday's defeat. Every line of its editorials in the last week has been to the reader a silhouette of some scene enacted in the office of that paper:—a dark shadow thrown on its pages, showing the movements of the writer. First we have the adipose associate skipping vigorously about as the ground beneath him gets too hot for comfort, dancing very like a boy whose venturesome fingers have been scorched in the fire—first on one leg then on the other, interspersing his forced agilities with such choice epithets as "liar," "base slanderer of good men's names," etc. And then rises the sinuous "small and ineffectual-looking" senior editor whose spasmodic leaps are frightful at times, but always amusing. He it is whose "long, loud bellowings shake the yielding skies;" whose endless strings of mountainous adjectives lap over each upon the other, like the scales of the armadillo, until it is difficult to tell just where the one sentence begins and the other ends. He it is whose fragrant rhetoric reeks with such elegant phrases as "[illegible] blackguard," "cowardly scandal-monger," etc. And so, varying their saltatory performances with these mild and inoffensive phrases, hippity-hop forever they go, first hand-in-hand, then at sword's point—now cursing each other in private, then damning their adversary in public, while all the time their violent figures [illegible] in and out like the grotesque [illegible] carvings on some Gothic shrine. It is in noway strange that sometimes the public eye should get bewildered in the perplexing maze at the dance—that the elephantine associate should at times be mistaken for the Lilliputian senior. Note one thing well: in all the varied figures of this [illegible] dance, each lively performer stops [illegible] to blow his little horn exalt [illegible] skill as a graceful, genteel hopper [illegible] his laudamus to "honorable journal[illegible]." Then the perspiring dance, [illegible] with "villainous falsehood" [illegible] "vile calumniator."

These are the model, high-toned journalists who aspire to teach a "putty-faced [illegible]" of "honorable journalism," who are [illegible] thrusting themselves forward [illegible] of the profession.

[illegible] is another shadow, whose antique [illegible] so seldom that it is a matter [illegible] difficulty to ascertain just what [illegible] he is designed to perform. It is [illegible] rubicund visage and sweet [illegible] preferences, who can not brook [illegible] heaped upon the Bulletin. [illegible] his shadow is on the curtain, [illegible] obediently to the ele[illegible]. As one who closely [illegible] of his fellow that he [illegible] him with precision, so the [illegible] bobs a little after the [illegible]

[illegible] of profound regret to [illegible] we have not profited in all the [illegible] by the illustrious [illegible] set before us; that [illegible] in inward honor and [illegible] when one of these [illegible] was a horny-handed wood[illegible] the other was training [illegible] that the wood chopping is any [illegible] to this. But it seems quite [illegible] that even a Federal officer [illegible] that the germ of hon[illegible] which was nipped so [illegible] bud first came from the [illegible] that the lumbering gait of [illegible] has not entirely faded [illegible] memory of this community. [illegible] is it not for some strange toss of [illegible] wheel, the bland tones of the [illegible]-looking senior" might [illegible] heard wooing the rustic swains [illegible] at our country fairs: "Come [illegible], now, and view the beaming [illegible] of The Learned Pig, whose [illegible] have elicited expressions of the profoundest emotion from the [illegible] heads of Europe, who have witnessed his wonderful feats."

The pig and the ax alone are needed to [illegible] the present with the equally [illegible]

A BOLD GAME OF BLUFF.

When the OREGONIAN made a partial [illegible] of the gross frauds and corruption by which Multnomah county was [illegible] for the Albany nominee, the Bulletin [illegible] to conceal its chagrin under [illegible] of indifference. It was con[illegible] to deride the charge. It will find [illegible] the honest people of Oregon will [illegible] this new infamy as they endured [illegible] only until they can effectively [illegible] it. We laid bare the "card" [illegible] by which voters were bought [illegible] sold like sheep in the sham[illegible]. Now the Bulletin takes up its "cards" again and plays a very bold game of bluff. It says the OREGONIAN is wroth because Multnomah county gave a majority for Hiram Smith, when in reality the OREGONIAN would have been very much ashamed of Hiram if, with all the appliances used in his behalf, he could not have carried one county in the State. We stated that Hiram Smith gave $1,000 to aid in the election. The Bulletin denounces this as a falsehood and says: "Hiram Smith did not contribute $1,000, nor did he contribute any other sum." In answer to this, we say, only, that it is wholly a question of veracity between Hiram Smith and the associate editor of the Bulletin. We have not at any time charged that Mr. Smith contributed this sum to aid in the specific purpose for which it was used. We do not believe that that gentleman (for whom we entertain a high regard) would knowingly contribute to a scheme of wholesale bribery. Nor did we state that the money was so used. The Bulletin has admitted that $580 covered the printing bills. The public can guess what was done with the remainder.

We stated, the other day, that Hiram Smith was present at a meeting to devise ways and means for keeping certain members of the ring out of the penitentiary. Afterwards, Mr. Smith assured us that our informants were in error. We volunteered to make the correction, and not at his solicitation. It was a gentlemanly act which the Bulletin cannot appreciate, and of which it may not be capable.

We want to call the attention of the Bulletin to the charge made several days since by the Evening News: that prisoners who were serving out their time in the county jail were taken out of jail just before the election, by members of the ring, that they were about the streets on election day peddling tickets and electioneering for the Albany nominee. Come to the center, Mr. Bulletin. Answer the charge. Is it true, or is it a "malignant falsehood?"

The London correspondent of the Boston Advertiser writes that one of the minor magazines of London has been looking up the early writings of Dr. Kenealy, the famous counsel for "the Butcher of Wapping," in the Tichborne case. It is found that Kenealy's earliest volume—"Poems and Translations"—was dedicated to the present Lord Chief Justice Cockburn, dedicated "by one who shares in the fervent admiration, honor and regard which the whole bar feel for the Judge, the jurist and the scholar. In an "anecdote" we are told how a woman fell down in a fit in the Strand, and was simply spurned by the crowd for "daring to block up the streets," but how

"There came a man on whose broad, fair brow,
Genius gleamed like a glowing star:
He is one of our judges now,
Then the brightest light at the bar.

Oh! how tenderly in his arms
Did he raise that woman weak:
Oh! how gently did he soothe her—
Words of mine were faint to speak."

The effect of this remarkable incident on the mind of the writer is thus described:

"Ever since then I have thought there's something Good in the air of Westminster Hall."

If the indignant utterances of the peppery Dr. are any fair index of his opinions, we should say that his estimate of Cockburn's amiable temper has suffered serious decline. Breathing the air of Westminster Hall, also, has not sustained the Dr.'s high opinion of its sanitary qualities.

Warned by the lamentable experience of past years, the farmers of England are now jealously guarding the limited forests that remain in that country. Trees are being planted and carefully cultivated in many of the counties, in the reasonable expectation that they will prove a valuable inheritance to future generations when the great forests of Norway, which now furnish Europe with the best timber for shipbuilding, shall be exhausted. It is stated on authority of statistics collected by the government, that the number of acres now under Scotch pine is greater than at any previous period in Scotland's history. Much of the pine included in the statistics, however, will not be available for many years and larches are being planted, as they are of more rapid growth. The farming communities of the United States may profit by this significant action. Here the apparently inexhaustible supplies of timber for building purposes and for fuel are being rapidly and recklessly cut away without proper provision for their renewal. The forest fires which annually sweep over our mountain ranges in Oregon, are destroying a source of wealth, the loss of which can not easily be remedied. We say nothing of the climatic changes which must follow their destruction, and which, as other States have learned to their detriment, are almost always for the worse.

The latest thing from Rome is the story that in place of the tiresome pilgrimages in the body, now so popular all over Europe, pilgrimages in the spirit will be substituted. The advantage is clear: no expense is incurred, while the same spiritual reward is secured. The pilgrimage is to last thirty days, and this period is to be divided into three decades. In the first decade the faithful march in the spirit unto the holy land, praying and singing in the body meanwhile. In the second, they visit the most celebrated sanctuaries of Italy, and in the third the sacred fanes of other countries. A speculative map publisher of Rome has now published maps by which to facilitate these pilgrimages and keep things straight on the trip. In a letter to the Pope, asking the endorsement of His Holiness to the enterprise, he says: "Your Holiness may readily perceive that pilgrims can not undertake the proposed travels, even in the spirit, unless they have maps of the localities their spirit is to visit, as well of the stopping-places where their bodies are to rest, in imagination, in order to partake of refreshments. Now, my maps are furnished with pins having colored flags attached to them, and every pilgrim can use these pins to designate every day the ground traveled over."

The Emigration Department of the Children's Aid Society in New York city is doing a good work in sending large companies of poor and homeless children to the West, where employment and means of living are obtained more easily than in the crowded streets of the metropolis. Companies averaging over one hundred persons are sent West every alternate week. One of the largest and most interesting parties left about two weeks since. It was composed chiefly of foreign looking juveniles, such as are seen smoking cigar butts in the park or lounging at night about the cheap theaters. There were also a considerable number of tidy, intelligent looking young girls, who had been fortunately rescued from the temptations and dangers that beset a city life. Before leaving, each member of the party was supplied with neat and comfortable clothing, all departed in good spirits.

A dreadful calamity overtook Apalachicola, September 28th, in the fierce tornado which swept over Florida on that day. A resident of that town writes to his brother, in Atlanta, Georgia, that the destruction was almost complete. Warehouses, stores and dwellings were blown down or unroofed, merchants lost nearly all their stocks in store, and a universal wrecking of the shipping, fishing boats, etc., in port, ensued. The orange groves in the immediate vicinity of the city were wholly ruined. The correspondent takes a very gloomy view of the situation, and predicts that Apalachicola will never recover from the calamity. The ruin is complete—so complete that the town is hardly recognizable.

A New York paper, speaking of the singular career of Alphonse Karr, the popular Parisian feuilletonist, says that a long time ago he quarreled with M. Bertin of the Journal des Debats, which resulted in his swearing that he would not write a line for the press for twenty years. That odd vow he faithfully kept, notwithstanding the most tempting offers. He bought a beautiful villa and garden near Nice, and became a zealous horticulturist. He sent thousands of bouquets to the Paris market, but the venture was not profitable. When the twenty years had expired, Karr returned to his newspaper work, and is to-day as brilliant as ever.

John Bright is not alone in his opposition to the Ashantee war. The London Times disapproves, in the strongest terms, of a continuance of the war, and cites many authorities, among them Colonel McCourt, lately Judicial Assessor to the native chiefs on the Gold Coast, who writes: "It is sheer madness and recklessness to send out European troops to die like sheep in that fatal climate. The whole affair can, and should be amicably settled by negotiations with the King of Ashantee." And still the war goes on.

Controller Green, of New York City, has recently startled the taxpayers of that city and county, with a statement that, financially, the city affairs are getting worse and worse. He shows that last year the receipts were $32,250,000, a very large return. But large as these figures may be, the expenditures far exceed them, being $52,330,000. The Controller shows that in the brief period of twelve months the indebtedness of the city of New York has been increased just $20,000,000. And Tweed is not in office, either.

A Pittsburg paper says, in connection with the Local Option laws of Pennsylvania, that it may be noted that sumptuary legislation is no new thing in that State. Many years ago the Pennsylvania Legislature passed a law providing that "no member of the Legislature should come to the House barefoot, or eat his bread and cheese on the steps." It occurs to us that the people of Pennsylvania might, with profit, repeal that law and go back to the days of cheese-eating, barefooted legislators.

THE OREGON ELECTION.

John H. Mitchell, after some years' residence in our neighboring State of Oregon, where he followed his profession of the law honorably, was elected to the Senate of the United States. It was charged that his success in politics was attributable to the fact that he had acted as the attorney of Ben Holladay in his railroad schemes and enjoyed the friendship of this railroad potentate. We can scarcely call Holladay a railroad king. His schemes are not vast enough, nor his pockets deep enough, nor his success in railroad building sufficiently marked to invest him with the royal title. He is a sort of satrap or provincial magnate, undoubtedly the biggest toad in his local puddle; but then the puddle is a small one. After Mr. Mitchell's election it was ascertained that he was not Mr. Mitchell, but Mr. Hipple; that he had changed his name, that he had fled his native State; that he had deserted his wife and abandoned his children, and that his dealings with former clients were open to severe criticism. The people of Oregon, with their old-fashioned notions of morality, felt somewhat scandalized, and wondered—not that Mr. Hipple should have done such things, but that, having done them, he should have dared the ascent to the heights of such dazzling political honors, when exposure was so sure to follow. Mr. Hipple procured his name to be changed to Mitchell, and, when the Republican Convention assembled, composed in great part of Federal office-holders, he caused himself to be indorsed. He was indorsed, forty-five persons voting for him and twenty-seven voting against him, and then the Convention proceeded to put in nomination a candidate for Congress. We presume the Congressional candidate, standing upon the Hipple-Mitchell platform, did not indorse the Hipple history, and, in event of his election, did not pledge himself to run away from Oregon, to desert his wife and leave his children; but the good people of Oregon, with their old-fashioned notions of morality, got confused and declined to vote for the Hipple-Mitchell Republican candidate, and sent the Democratic Nesmith to Washington. We do not exactly understand whether Nesmith's election it claimed as a political or social triumph. The moral of the story is for married politicians never to desert Mrs. Micawber lest something should turn up when they least expect it.—S. F. Chronicle, Oct. 16th.

AN ASPIRING COLT.—A few days since, it is related, J. W. Keene, of Pembroke, N. Y., took his mare from the barn, leaving a two months' colt behind. On his return, some two hours after, he found the colt on the roof of the barn. Being unable to follow the mare, it had sought some means of escape. In the first place it had gone up a flight of stairs—fifteen steps; then over the hay mow, and out of a window in the gable end of the barn on to a half-roof. From this elevation it worked its way to the roof of the main barn, which is very steep; then it returned to the half-roof, whence, on the return of the mother, it jumped to the ground, a distance of fourteen feet—a feat which it accomplished without being the least injured.

CITY.

Made Good Time.—The Emma Hayward has generally been regarded as the fastest boat on these waters. She has been entitled to that enviable distinction from the time of the trial trip until very recently. The new steamer, Daisy Ainsworth, now running on the upper Columbia, appears to be a successful rival, and to dispute the Hayward's claims to being the most rapid traveler. The Daisy Ainsworth has been running between the Cascades and Dalles for some weeks; but not until last week has she "got upon her dignity" in regard to speed. She is allowed to carry 115 pounds of steam by the inspector's certificate, but has never yet carried more than 80 pounds. Last Thursday she made the distance from Cascades to the Dalles in two hours and forty-five minutes, carrying 100 pounds pressure. This was traveling at the rate of sixteen miles an hour against a strong current. It beats the Oneonta's best time badly, and also distances the Emma Hayward. When allowed to carry the full complement of steam, and the engines to have a clear stroke, the Daisy will fairly beat herself.

Hospital and Orphanage.—We are informed that Bishop Morris has purchased of the heirs of the Couch estate a piece of ground, in the northwestern part of the city, for the purposes of a hospital for the sick and wounded, and a home for orphan and destitute children. The ground lies on Twenty-first street, between M and O streets. The blocks and fractions purchased make in all about three and a half acres. The situation is a high and healthful one, and will command an extensive view of Portland and its surroundings, when the brush in front is cleared off. While this institution will be under the general management of the Episcopal Church, its doors will be open to the sick and suffering of every creed and country, and there will be cordial admission to the bedside of the sick of any religious ministrations they may desire. The intention is to have the work in one building, so arranged as that each department will be entirely separate from the other, opening out on opposite portions of the ground.

Cotswold Sheep.—The statement was made in the city press a few days since that 19 head of fine Cotswold sheep were in Portland en route for Willow Creek. In relation to this, we are in receipt of the following letter from Col. Peter Saxe, the well known stock importer: "Of the 19 Cotswold sheep owned by Hon. R. C. Kinney, and now en route for the Willow Creek country, Eastern Oregon, only a few were bought of or bred by S. G. Reed, Esq. They were bought of several parties—the four best—viz: "Sampson, No. 506," "Royal George, No. 15," Lark, No. 109," and Kennedy, No. 116." These were bred by some of the most famous breeders in Bourbon county, Ky., were imported and sold by me to Mr. Kinney, who personally values them at $200 each. The sires and grandsires of the bucks above named, cost their Kentucky owners and importers $500 to $1,000 each. "Sampson, No. 506" was awarded the first premium at the [illegible] Fair.

Harvest Concert.—The annual festival of the Unitarian Sabbath School was held in the Chapel last evening, and was a [illegible] and instructive affair. The exercises were under the direction of Superintendent [illegible], and consisted of harvest hymns by the school; [illegible] of appropriate texts from Scripture by [illegible] readings and essays by the older [illegible] a duet by the Misses Mercier, a solo by Miss Teal, and selections by the choir. The [illegible] were excellently rendered, especially an [illegible] by Miss Dimick and recitation by Miss Olds. Then followed instructive addresses by Mr. [illegible] and the Pastor, showing the object of the festival to be one of thanksgiving. The pulpit was decorated with a pyramid of fruits and sheaves of grain, and the walls were tastefully hung with beautiful autumn leaves. The Chapel was crowded with visitors.

Asphaltum.—Thirty tons of asphalt was shipped some time since on board the schooner H. L. Tiernan. This article was to be used in [illegible] the floor of the basement for the new Custom House. As the schooner on which it was shipped is aground below Astoria, with but poor prospects of getting off, it is not improbable that the asphalt has ere this been [illegible] overboard. A gentleman from Astoria informs us that nearly all the cargo has been removed from the hold and conveyed on [illegible] to a place of safety. As the asphalt is [illegible] in casks and is heavy and unwieldy, it will be the last portion of the cargo which is removed. Mr. Higgins, the superintendent of construction for the Custom House, has as yet received no advices as to the fate of the article in question.

Changing the Track.—More than one year ago, some person made the rash assertion that in twelve months' time Couch's lake would cease to have an existence. Whoever made that prediction was certainly not gifted with prophetic foresight to any great extent; for we find to-day that the lake is not a thing of the past, but is quite a living reality. Encroachments on the limits of this lagoon have been going on continuously for many months, and the results of such labor are beginning to show prominently. Yesterday a large gang of Chinamen were engaged in tearing up the side track beyond the Clarendon Hotel, and moving it further over towards the margin of the lake. And thus the good work progresses.

Woman's Guild.—The Churchman says that the annual meeting of the Woman's Guild of Trinity Church will take place Saturday, November 1st—All Saints' Day. The hour is immediately after morning prayer, which begins at 10 o'clock. The place is Trinity Chapel. Officers are to be elected and yearly reports of work to be read. We hope to see a full representation of all members. Those who have not been able to be present for some time, could not do better than hand delinquent dues to the Treasurer, as there is a general desire to pay off all outstanding liabilities.

Passengers.—The steamer John L. Stephens, which sailed yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, carried away the following passengers: H. Mabin and wife, R. T. Dolano, Charles Skidmore, E. L. Hastings, H. W. Scott, H. M. Stuart, Miss Maggie Hogan, S. J. Randle, H. Hosley, Mrs. Leonard and 2 children, J. Scully and boy, Mrs. Moskowitz and boy, K. Kennedy, W. H. Anderson, R. S. Knapp, L. H. Wakefield, T. Baldwin, H. Miller, Miss Alina Saikes, M. S. Slawley, Miss Abernethy and neice, Mrs. M. A. Gilman and boy, R. Burrell, and 30 in the steerage.

Rudder Damaged.—The railroad ferryboat did not make its accustomed trips yesterday, until late in the afternoon. This was occasioned by some needed repairs which were made to the rudder. That portion of the boat immediately above one of rudders was crushed by a heavily loaded truck being driven over. The pilot, in his attempt to work the tackling by the ropes from the wheelhouse, badly jammed the rudder, and rendered it useless until the damage was repaired. By the time the evening train arrived the ferry was in running condition.

Shubrick.—The United States lighthouse tender Shubrick, Captain Jasson, arrived at Astoria a few days ago from an inspection cruise along the Sound. The steamer proceeded up the river to a point near the famous Hog's Back, where one of the principal buoys which mark the limits of the channel was moved nearly half a mile from its original position. The change of the location of the buoy caused some trouble among the river pilots, and Capt. Snow came near grounding his vessel before he was aware that the buoy had been removed.

German Services.—A series of German services will be inaugurated in Trinity Church, on the first Sunday evening of November. These services, with a sermon in the German language, will be conducted by Rev. John Rosenberg. We trust that our German citizens will avail themselves of this opportunity to worship God, and receive spiritual instruction, in the tongue of "fatherland."

Cleaning Up—Testing.—Yesterday being Sunday, it was a busy day for the river steamers which were in port. The crew on board the Annie Stewart was engaged in cleaning out the boiler, and making some slight repairs. On board the Emma Hayward an equal degree of activity was manifested. The large boiler was carefully washed out and afterwards tested by the United States Boiler Inspector.

Vote of Thanks.—At a recent meeting held by the Father Mathew Society, a resolution of thanks was tendered Mr. S. J. McCormick by members of the organization, for the lecture delivered on Friday, 10th inst., at Philharmonic Hall.

Change in the Time.—The steamer Ajax will be due here to-morrow evening from San Francisco. She is advertised to sail hence on next Saturday at 6 o'clock P. M. The California is announced to sail for Sitka and way ports.

Water Mains.—One hundred and two wooden mains were received on Saturday from Kalama by the steamer Fannie Troup. These mains were made at Seattle, and are for the Salem Water Company.

AMUSEMENTS.

The last entertainment of the series was given by Vivian and his troupe at Masonic Hall last Saturday evening. A large and fashionable audience was present. The evening's entertainment consisted of an excellent programme rendered in admirable style. Encores were frequent at the close of the respective renderings, of Madame Reifarth, Messrs. Lask and McKensie, while the irreproachable character songs and anecdotes of the great Vivian, and the really wonderful displays of the ventriloquist's art by that prince of artists, Mr. Jester, were received by the audience with tumultuous applause. This troupe will start in a few days for Victoria via the Sound. To the patronage of the public generally, we can heartily recommend Vivian and his superior troupe. The entertainments are funny and witty without vulgarity or coarseness, and thoroughly pleasing and refined.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

Miss Sallie Hinckley, the well-known actress, is handled without gloves in a card published in the Pioche paper of the 7th, by Mr. and Mrs. Bird, managers of a theatrical company at that place, for discontinuing her engagement, returning to San Francisco, and leaving the Birds to grief and impecuniosity, with bills to pay. The figures of the season of six nights are given, showing a loss of $258 50. The late Pierpont Thayer was a member of this company; and the venture appears to be an unfortunate one altogether. It was signalized by a suicide at its commencement, and by bankruptcy at its close.

If you are contemplating a purchase of clothing bear in mind one thing, and that is, to buy a good article and at the same time to pay a low price for it. BECK & WALDMAN, the popular clothiers, sell the best, charge a low price and always keep a large stock. Their stock of youth's clothing is not to be excelled anywhere. Parents should remember this.

FIRE ALARM BELL.

A few weeks ago an ordinance was introduced in the Common Council authorizing the Committee on Fire and Water and the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, to purchase an Alarm Bell, which was not to exceed in weight 4,500 pounds, and the cost of the same not to exceed the sum of $2,200. This ordinance passed the Council on the 1st of October, and was approved by Mayor Failing on the 6th of the same month. In response to a letter written by Mr. A. B. Hallock, inquiring as to the cost, etc., of such a bell as the Committee were authorized to purchase, he received, yesterday the following answer:

WEST TROY, N. Y., Oct. 7, 1873.

Mr. A. B. Hallock, Portland, Oregon—DEAR SIR: Your esteemed favor of the 26th ult. is at hand, and in compliance therewith, we herewith enclose a signed proposition, and blank acceptance of the same, to furnish your city a fire alarm bell of any desired size under 5,000 pounds. You could, as you suggest, send the order by telegraph to save time. If our proposition is accepted, please fill out the acceptance and give particular shipping directions. We are now filling an order for bells for San Francisco, (not for the Fire Department) the parties who, in their order, expressed a preference for our work over that of Mr. Garrett. We have lately placed an 8,000 pound bell in the Newark, N. J., fire alarm tower.

Respectfully soliciting your order, we remain yours, very truly,

E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

The following is the proposition which is spoken of in the above letter:

We hereby propose and agree to furnish to the city of Portland, Oregon, a fire alarm bell of any desired weight, not exceeding five thousand pounds (5,000 lbs), for forty-five cents per pound, delivered here. The bell to be warranted for one year not to break, and the tone warranted satisfactory. It could be shipped within twenty days after receipt of order. Terms of payment, cash. Interest to accrue at 7 per cent after thirty days, and payment to be made within four months.

Respectfully, yours,
E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

All that is necessary now is the acceptance of the above proposition by the Committee on Fire and Water in conjunction with the Chief Engineer. The bell can be landed in Portland within sixty days after the acceptance is telegraphed to the contracting firm. As this is an important matter, in which every property holder feels an abiding interest, the Committee will doubtless use all necessary expedition.

Mr. Archibald Blair, for some time connected with the O. & C. R. R. and the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad Companies in the capacity of a surveyor, is now Chief Engineer of the San Joaquin & Tulare Narrow Gauge Railroad.

Mr. Edgar Brown, son of B. F. Brown, Esq., of Salem, who has been Wells, Fargo & Co.'s route agent on the Oregon and California Railroad for some time, took his departure on Saturday for San Francisco to accept a situation in the Western Union Telegraph office in that city.

ENTERTAINMENT IN OLYMPIA.

OLYMPIA, W. T., Oct. 17, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The entertainment last night, given by the "Busy Bees," for the benefit of the Episcopal Church, was a decided success. Columbia Hall was beautifully decorated with flags and evergreens, and everybody seemed pleased. Music was furnished. The Olympia Cornet Band, assisted by Mr. C. W. Lowe, of Portland, the Choral Society, the Glee Club, the Misses Jessie Lowe, Stella Galliber, Georgie Percival, Belle Evans, W. H. Roberts. The total amount received was, I believe, $169. The Turkish tent, and the fancy work, and the refreshment tables were well patronized, if only to catch a glimpse of the pretty attendants who seemed very intent on receiving money all the evening. Such entertainments are very pleasant and tend to help a good cause.

THE CHIMES AND THE PANIC.—Editor Brooklyn Eagle: A sermon, deep and to the point, was the other day preached by Old Trinity's chimes—whether by accident or design of the presiding genius of the tower, I know not. It was about the hour of 3 o'clock, P. M. The news of Henry Clews & Co.'s suspension had gone forth, and great was the crowd of bulls, bears, bank clerks and cashiers who had had a chance, those waiting for their chance, those who are honest and upright, as they have no chance. Great was the crowd and intense the excitement. Hope in human institutions, and humanity itself, seemed to be gone. Earthly frauds and peculations and suspensions, as practiced in New York city, of which he hait seen so much, and which all hoped they had seen the bottom of, as per newspaper, continued. There seemed to be no bottom; it had been knocked out. The stillness for so great a concourse was painful to a noise-loving New Yorker, and when the glorious old chimes of Trinity rang out, in tones loud and sweet, the music of that grand old hymn,

> "Come ye sinners, poor and needy,
> Weak and wounded, sick and sore."

The effect was marked on the vast audience, as they slowly wended their several ways. More music such as that, and a Vigilance Committee to take action on the wrongs perpetrated by the enemies of commerce and society in general, in the Stock and Gold Rooms, would prevent such scenes as we are now witnessing in Wall street. COOS BAY ITEMS.

Our regular correspondent, writing from Empire City under date of Oct. 14th, says:

The U. S. steamer Shubrick came in last week and laid buoys in the harbor and on the bar.

That excellent organization, the O. G. T. Club, propose giving another entertainment about the 1st prox.

The arrivals since the 7th were the steamers Eastport and Shubrick, brig Sheet Anchor, sch'rs B. H. Ramsdell, Elida, Parallel and Gotama.

Several Indians got into a row on the Umpqua last week, resulting in one of the braves being sent to the "happy hunting grounds."

Mr. H. H. Luse's fine new building is completed. It will be occupied by Jay Tuttle & Co., druggists, the Post office and office of the Collector of Customs.

Miss Julia Schetter, while riding in the vicinity of the Eastport coal mines, early last week, was thrown from the horse, resulting in the fracture of a leg. She is receiving careful attention.

Yesterday afternoon as the tug Fearless was going out over the bar for the purpose of bringing in a vessel, one of her valves got out of order and she drifted on a sand spit. The crew was saved. The tug, it is thought, will be a total loss.

About a week ago, while crossing Umpqua bar, the schooner Sparrow became unmanageable and drifted ashore. There was no wind to speak of at the time. About four months ago the schooner Enterprise was caught in the same fix. The latter vessel has been repaired and is now ready for business.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

Vancouver has another meat market at last.

Mr. Gridley has just commenced to erect a fine dwelling house. There is more building going on than there was earlier in the season.

Messrs. Caples and Gibbs, of Portland, have made their appearance on our streets to be in readiness for the sitting of Court on Monday.

S. W. Brown has orders from Walla Walla for 15,000 fruit trees, instead of 1,500, as we stated a few days ago. A slip of the pen sometimes makes a slight difference.

Prof. Connor has just closed the first term of his writing school. Prizes had been promised to the one who made the most progress in writing and to the best penman. There was a spirited contest, and on Friday evening the prizes were awarded by judges appointed by the class to Albert Walsh for best specimen of writing, and to Jacob Rathburn for greatest improvement.

Don't go home to-night without having previously made arrangements with John O'Neil & Co. to do up a fall suit in their own peculiar style, which is quite popular, as the elegant suits daily seen on the streets from this house will attest. Mr. Scharf, of the firm, has been to San Francisco. That is sufficient. Be sure to call and select from the latest arrivals, which are new and novel. The place is 93 First street.

Liverpool Wheat, 12s 5d@12s 6d; club, 12s 9d@13s.

The activity in the wheat market has created [illegible] inquiry in our local money market, and [illegible] accommodations a tendency toward greater [illegible], though a great portion of the funds used in the purchase of the grain crop is at present coming from outside sources. Our city banks are not [illegible] supplied with surplus capital at present, and can only furnish aid to their regular customers. [illegible] loans are effected with some difficulty on the part of borrowers, who are generally [illegible] to accede to high rates, especially for long time loans. This period in the season is usually the [illegible] in the whole year, and as our merchants [illegible] seem to be doing all their business upon a rigidly conservative basis, there is but little [illegible] to fear that the result of the fall trade will be favorable, and that the return in a few weeks of the large sums used to purchase wheat to the regular [illegible] of trade, will insure a good supply of [illegible] in our local market during the winter [illegible]

British Iron Trade.

The latest returns from the British Board of Trade [illegible] how nearly a stop has been put to the exportation of iron to the United States. Comparing the [illegible] of August, 1872, with the same [illegible] 1873, the export of pig iron declined from [illegible] to 7,396; of bar, angle and rod iron, from [illegible] tons; of railroad iron, from 40,005 to 6,[illegible]; [illegible] and sheet iron, from 3,305 to 462 [illegible]; of tinwrought [illegible] from 2,066 to 1,342 tons; [illegible] from [illegible] increase from 1,055 to 2,282 [illegible] all the [illegible] of iron and [illegible], the [illegible] 81,971 tons in August, 1872, and only [illegible] or less than one-third as much, in August, 1873.

[illegible] Crops.

[illegible] of land under cultivation in Great Britain, it is stated in the undermentioned years, [illegible]

	Wheat, Acres.	Barley, Acres.	Oats, Acres.	Potatoes, Acres.

[illegible] in the acreage [illegible] this year, of only 108,765 acres, where[illegible] have placed the deficiency as [illegible] Official returns, recently published [illegible] to be 108,565 acres, as [illegible] with the [illegible] year.
